To Our Friends and Customers:

TAKE GREAT PLEASURE IN CALLING YOUR ATTENTION TO THE CONDITION OF THIS BANK as of OCTOBER 2, 1931, printed at the bottom of this page. 1931, printed at the bottom of this page.

The strength of this bank is revealed in this statement and shows that this bank has been managed in a capable and conservative manner.

On the strength of this bank as manifested by this statement we solicit your banking business and call your attention again to some of the strong points of our successful management as a banking institution of this section.

No loans are made on automobiles.

Second: No loans are made on speculative stocks.

Third: No officer of this bank owes us a penny.

Fourth: No firm, partnership, or corporation in which any officer of this bank has an interest owes this bank any money.

In other words, this bank has been managed conservatively for the benefit of its customers and depositors, and the funds of the bank are not being used by any person connected with the bank or by any firm, partnership, or corporation in which any person connected with the bank is identified.

We also call your attention to the fact that although cotton, our principal crop, is bringing a very low price, this bank has so loaned its money that it is in a strong financial condition and does not owe any borrowed money, whatever, and in addition, we are not carrying any loans on cotton for any customer of the bank.

Mary Roberts Rinehart

The Clipper's next serial will be by America's greatest woman writer. It is named

Sight Unseen

Around a friendly little circle of neighbors who decide to amuse themselves with some spiritualistic seances is woven a tale that moves Mrs. R inehart's usual sprightliness towards solving of a mysterious murder.

It is a most unusual story and will not offend anyone, no matter how they view spiritualism, detective mysteries, crime or the other questions handled.

It never becomes gruesome. In fact it is full of that most unusual quality—humor.

Mrs. Rinehart is said to be the most highly paid woman writer in the world today and she numbers her admirers by the millions.
